OPPORTUNITIES

TEAL graduate students are instructed by exceptional faculty in becoming outstanding educators, scholars, and leaders through student-focused learning experiences; school, community, and global engagement; and research and innovation that informs practice.

TEAL offers world-renowned master’s and PhD programs as well as endorsement programs. Our graduate students perform on-the-ground research and teaching with the Edith Bowen Laboratory School and the Emma Eccles Jones Early Childhood Education and Research Center. We are committed to furthering equitable educational opportunities for all students. We prepare teachers and educational leaders for influential participation in local and global communities.

PhD concentrations include:

- ▶ Cultural Studies
- ▶ Instructional Leadership
- ▶ Literacy Education and Leadership
- ▶ Mathematics Education and Leadership
- ▶ Science Education

TEAL prepared me for a career as an educational leader. I’ve learned how to think critically, evaluate studies, and conduct and publish my research, all while maintaining my profession as a classroom teacher. My experience has been phenomenal.”
